All instructions are carried out in accordance with our order execution policy so as to ensure that, in the course of executing instructions on your behalf, we seek to obtain the best possible result for you. Our policy is to treat you as a retail client in order that you receive the maximum regulatory protections.

When executing an instruction on your behalf, we consider the characteristics of the order and the financial instrument concerned, together with how the order can best be executed. We have effective arrangements in place to assess the most appropriate route to execute your instructions. Our policy is monitored on a regular basis and formally reviewed at least annually to ensure that all instructions are executed promptly and accurately.

TRADES: We will seek to execute all trade instructions within an hour of receipt and certainly within the same trading day. If for any reason we are unable to do this, we will make every effort to inform you and take further instructions.

EXECUTION VENUES: In order to ensure that we have taken all reasonable steps to obtain on a consistent basis the best possible result for the execution of your instructions, we evaluate our choice of execution venues annually. We consider whether or not the then current venue(s) achieve the best possible service in executing your instructions.

APPROPRIATENESS: Where we require more information in order to undertake any appropriateness assessment required by law or regulation before being able to proceed with an instruction, your failure or delay in providing this information will result in delays in accepting and executing your instruction and the foregoing provisions of this clause must be read and construed accordingly in such circumstances.

GENERAL: We do not accept liability for any loss resulting from the failure or delay on the part of a third party in respect of the execution of your instruction, or for your instructions being executed at a different price than that which could have been obtained if the instruction had been executed at the time anticipated by you.

Notwithstanding the above, we reserve the right to delay the processing of any instruction if, we cannot readily deal in the investment to the value of the instruction on the processing date and within the times set out above; or it is not reasonably practicable for us to process the instruction on that date due to circumstances beyond our control (including, but not limited to, any minimum dealing limit applied to the investment in question), in such circumstances, we will normally process the instruction on the first business day upon which it becomes reasonably practicable for the instruction in question to be executed after the end of the period of delay, subject to the sub clauses above.

10.2 On termination of our appointment we shall promptly account to you for all investments and cash held by us or any nominee company of ours for your account, save that we shall be entitled to retain such commissions and cash as may be required to settle transactions already initiated and to pay any outstanding liabilities.

10.3 If, on termination, any money is or may become due as a result of a commitment entered into on your account ("an outstanding account") we may at our sole discretion sell such of the investments as we may select in order to realise cash sufficient to cover any outstanding amount (but only to the extent that insufficient cash is otherwise held on your account and available for the purpose) and/or cancel, close out, terminate or reverse any transaction or enter into any other transaction or do anything which has the effect of reducing or eliminating liability under any contracts, positions or commitments undertaken on your account. You will be given at least three business days written notice of our intention to exercise this right.

As of 01 January 2010, most types of investments are protected up to £50,000. Further information about compensation scheme arrangements is available from the Financial Services Compensation Scheme.

13 General Risk Warning

The market information relating to the past performance of an investment is not necessarily a guide to its performance in the future. The value of investments or income from them may go down as well as up. As stocks and shares are valued from second to second, their bid and offer value fluctuates sometimes widely. The value of investments may rise or fall due to the volatility of world markets, interest rates and capital values or, for investments held in overseas markets, changes in the rate of exchange in the currency in which the investments are denominated. You may not necessarily get back the amount you invested.

You should carefully consider in the light of your financial resources whether investing in stocks and shares is suitable for you.

14 CFD and Spread Bet Risk Warning

You should not deal in CFDs or Spread Bets unless you understand their nature and the extent of your exposure to risk. Please note that CFDs and Spread Bets are considered high risk. You can lose more than your initial deposit rapidly and substantially. You should be satisfied that the product is suitable for you in the light of your circumstances and financial position. If in doubt, seek advice from an independent financial advisor. In deciding whether to trade in CFDs/Spread Bets, as well as understanding that you can lose more than your initial deposit as stated above, you should be aware of the following points.

CFDs/Spread Bets can only be settled in cash. Investing in a CFD/Spread Bets carries the same risks as investing in a future or an option or other derivative product. Transactions in CFDs/spread Bets may also have a contingent liability and you should be aware of the implications of this as set out below.

Contingent liability investment transactions, which are margined, require you to make a series of payments against the purchase price, instead of paying the whole purchase price immediately. If you trade in contracts for differences, you may sustain a total loss of the margin you deposit with your firm to establish or maintain a position. If the market moves against you, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional margin at short notice to maintain the position. If you fail to do so within the time required, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you will be responsible for the resulting deficit. Even if a transaction is not margined, it may still carry an obligation to make further payments in certain circumstances over and above any amount paid when you entered the contract.

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain details of all commissions and other charges for which you will be liable. If any charges are not expressed in money terms (but, for example, as a percentage of contract value), you should obtain a clear and written explanation, including appropriate examples, to establish what such charges are likely to mean in specific money terms. In the case of futures, when commission is charged as a percentage, it will normally be as a percentage of the total contract value, and not simply as a percentage of your initial payment.

15 Foreign Exchange Risk Warning

Trading foreign exchange on margin carries a high level of risk, and may not be suitable for all investors. The high degree of leverage can work against you as well as for you. Before deciding to trade foreign exchange you should carefully consider your investment objectives, level of experience, and risk appetite. The possibility exists that you could sustain a loss greater than your initial deposit. You should not invest money that you cannot afford to lose. You should be aware of all the risks associated with foreign exchange trading, and seek advice from an independent financial advisor if you have any doubts.
